INTERMOUNTAIN PHILOSOPHY Intermountain believes that the effectiveness of its competitors depends on the cooperative environment that has been fostered between all of its clubs. We believe hat a competitor's success depends upon his/her ability to function effectively within the team that he/she is a part of at any given event and with the coaches for that team. We believe that a coach's success depends upon his/her ability to work successfully with athletes regardless of their club affiliation or potential for success. To that end, Intermountain will organize its teams to regional events and development projects as fully integrated groups with all athletes and coaches traveling, housing, and working together to maximize the results of every athlete in the event. The affiliation of all athletes and coaches at these events will be Intermountain exclusively. The coaching staff for these projects and the Intermountain nominations for the coaching staff for Western Region projects will be limited to coaches who have demonstrated a willingness and the ability to work effectively with all of the athletes and coaches who are part of the team. I have read and understood the Guidelines for Team Coaches. I have a "Professional Coach" membership in USSA and have signed the USSA Waiver and Release of Liability. I agree to abide by the Intermountain Philosophy while participating as a coach for Intermountain
